IS HAWAIIAN TRADE EXPORT OR DOMESTIC?

THAT THE QUESTION CAUSING FRICTION AMONG EASTERN DEALERS.

New York Commercial Says Export Prices for Hawaii is Discrimination Against Rest of United States.

[Staff Correspondence, The Republic.] NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—The New York Commercial follows up its article of October 6 as printed in The Republic by the following which appears this morning:

New York business men were much interested in the article in Saturday's Commercial regarding the desirability of placing Hawaiian trade upon a domestic basis, in view of the fact that the islands are now a part of the United States and no longer eligible to receive export rates on goods shipped there from other portions of the Union.

It appears that there is no branch of trade in any staple manufactured goods that finds a foreign market in which the question of whether or not Hawaiian trade is export or domestic business is not causing more or less friction.

The tendency of the trade to seek its natural channel and flow along through the same course as business in other parts of the United States is very strong; but it is opposed by a disinclination to change business methods, and break away from the old idea that all business which must cross salt water is foreign business.

There are very few up-to-date business men who do not readily admit that the time must come when all Hawaiian business will be considered as domestic, but there are many who, either as a matter of convenience or with a thought that export prices will help their trade, are willing to continue to discriminate against the rest of the United States in favor of Hawaii, notwithstanding the fact that they leave themselves open to criticism for showing a willingness to sell at less than domestic prices in a part of the United States which has the same tariff protection as any other part of the country.

In the Bicycle Trade.
That natural conditions will force the recognition of Hawaii as a part of the United States in a trade way is shown by the conditions which now exist in many lines of trade. The bicycle trade is an illustration.

Manager Brown, of the export department of the American Bicycle Co., when asked whether that company handled the Hawaiian business as export or domestic business, said: "We handle it both ways."

This company has, in a manner at least, recognized the injustice to the public, particularly the jobber of the Pacific Coast, brought about by the treatment of the Hawaiian business as export business.

on the Pacific Coast have business relations in Hawaii, and as they consider it their territory we have allowed them to handle it as domestic business. I think that in time the Hawaiian business will be handled as domestic business.

Alaska an Example.

"The Alaska business is handled as domestic business, and there is no reason why that of Hawaii should not be. I can realize the difficulties which are presented by the situation. Of course, the people of Hawaii have been accustomed to export prices, and they are not going to take very kindly at first to a general advance, and manufacturers who are anxious to hold the business recognize the fact."

"In our line the difference between the export and the domestic price is not great, and it really does not make so much difference. The difference in cost of bicycles in different countries represents the difference in trimmings rather than a difference between export and domestic prices. In some countries they demand trimmings which the trade in another country does not call for."

"It may take some time for the matter to regulate itself," he continued; "but as I said, while we still consider it as export business, we are endeavoring to fairly treat our agents in whose territory the islands naturally are."

Machinery in a Wreck.

A derailed flat car caused a wreck Friday afternoon on the trestle where the tracks of the Waipahu mill leave the Oahu railway. An extra was taking six or seven cars out on the Sugar company's line. A sharp curve on the approach to the trestle derailed a flat car containing machinery and it fell to the ground, a distance of twenty feet. The machinery was considerably broken and damaged.

DR. MAXWELL SAILS TODAY.

Letter From Sugar Planters' Association Bidding Him Goodspeed.

Dr. Walter Maxwell, with his wife and son, sail today for Queensland, where the doctor will enter upon his duties in connection with the scientific investigation and direction of the growing of sugar.

It has been found that Queensland will, with proper efforts, be one of the greatest sugar producing countries of the world and it is to further the interests of the planters there that Dr. Maxwell has been called. His success here in the experimental lines was what caused the planters of Queensland to desire his help and guidance in their endeavors and he goes to his new duties on the promise of a princely salary.

Dr. Maxwell received the following letter from the Hawaiian Planters' association:

"Honolulu, October 27, 1900.

"My Dear Sir—I beg leave on the part of the Hawaiian Sugar Planters' association, to wish you godspeed on your way and every success in your new and extended sphere of usefulness to the agricultural interests of Queensland, where you are to fill a responsible and influential position of trust.

"I desire to avail of this opportunity to say that the association sees you depart with sincere regret and gratefully remembers the valuable services rendered by you to the Hawaiian Planters during the years you so faithfully and successfully filled the position of director of its experimental station and laboratories.

"I hope and trust that it may be our good fortune to greet you again among us whenever you recross the Pacific eastward bound and I assure you that the sincere good wishes of your friends in these islands are ever with you and yours.

"With my personal regards, I remain, my dear sir, very sincerely yours,

"F. A. SCHAEFER,

"President of the Hawaiian Sugar Planters' Association."

Christian Endeavor Union.

The local union of the Christian Endeavor societies, under the direction of its managing committee, is soon to have a meeting of the various organizations of the city. The object is to work up enthusiasm for Christian endeavor throughout the islands. The time has not been set for the convention, but it will be within a week or two. The Honolulu local union is a new feature of the society and it takes the initiative in this matter. The committee having the work in hand consists of the president, vice president and a representative from each of the six societies.

Indoor Baseball Saturday.

A match game of indoor base ball will take place next Saturday evening at the gymnasium of the Y. M. C. A. It is the intention to arrange the match between the board of directors of the association and the committee on sports. In case this fails, some other good team will engage the directors.

DEFENDS HIS STRATEGY.

Buller Tells What Confronted Him in South Africa.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—The Daily Mail's Pietermaritzburg correspondent telegraphs as follows:

"Returning thanks for the sword of honor presented to him, Sir Redvers Buller made a spirited defence of his strategy. He said that he did not believe that any general had ever faced a situation so difficult as that which confronted him when he disembarked at Capetown without an army and with no hope of one for another seven weeks or longer.

"I found Mafeking and Kimberley beleaguered," he continued, "and the two main avenues across the Free State, Bethulie Bridge and Norval's Post, in the hands of the enemy with Ladysmith surrounded. If I had waited for the army and then advanced on Bloemfontein it would have been at least twelve weeks before I could have exerted any influence on the situation. In that time the Boers would have overran and occupied Natal, and what would have been the effect of that on Europe and the British people?"

"General Buller then proceeded to make the interesting announcement that Sir Evelyn Wood had wired asking to be allowed to come to serve under him. He said he was never so tempted in his life to take a man at his word, for he had begun to look upon Natal as a forlorn hope, but it would have been cowardly to have let Sir Evelyn come to take the risk.

"I knew that if I had failed to relieve Ladysmith," he exclaimed, "I should lose the supreme command. I lost it, and rightly, I think, but I had taken on the task and was bound to see it through to a conclusion."

"Sir Redvers paid the highest compliments to the loyalty and gallantry of his troops under the tremendous strain, a strain, he believed, such as no soldiers in the history of the world had ever so undergone."

Boers Still Fighting.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—Lord Roberts reports from Pretoria, under date of October 18th, as follows:

"A party of Boers got into Jagtfontein on the night of October 16th and a fight ensued in the morning. Our loss was eleven killed. The Boers lost their commandant and twenty killed.

"Kelly-Kenny dispatched a column under Hughes-Murray, which should reach Jagtfontein today."

ROOSEVELT'S GREAT WORK.

Twenty-five Speeches in Ohio in Two Consecutive Days.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Oct. 17.—This has been a day of triumph for Governor Roosevelt in Ohio. Tonight the city of Cleveland gave him a reception rivaling any similar demonstration ever made here. There was an immense parade. From the union station, riding in a gorgeously decorated carriage, drawn by four white horses, in company with Governor Nash and Senator Foraker, Governor Roosevelt was escorted, while bands played and cannon boomed salutes along the route of the parade, to a large tent on Marcelline avenue, Newburg, where he addressed a large audience on the subject of prosperity.

Tonight Dr. Curtis, the governor's physician, who will leave the train at Canton tomorrow, said:

"Governor Roosevelt's voice depends upon the avoidance of over-fatigue. If he exercises a little more care than he has in the past I think he may be able to fulfill his engagements, but I could not guarantee any voice where twenty-five speeches are made in two consecutive days, without rest, and under great nervous strain. Otherwise Colonel Roosevelt is in superb physical health."

Since leaving Chicago last Wednesday morning, Governor Roosevelt's train has traveled 1,777 miles and has been handled over twenty separate lines of road.
